Dear Dr. Boguski:

Many thanks for your entertaining article. I am sorry I was not clever enough to insert an interesting sequence; frankly, it never crossed my mind that anyone would have the interest to investigate it.

There is a very Mac-based explanation for the sequence you found. It is derived from a Mac program called Gene Construction Kit by Bob Gross at Dartmouth, which he was kind enough to send me back in early 1990.

By the way, I suppose if anybody wanted to assemble a "real" sequence, we could probably drop it into the later editions of the book...

Cordially,

Michael Crichton
